ABBETT PROBABLY ELECTED. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

TRENTON, Nov. 6 .- In this county Leavitt (Rep. for the Senate, is undoubtedly elected, running largely ahead of his ticket. In this city Applegate and Rue (Reps.) for the Assembly, and Caminade (Dem.) are elected. This is no change from the present representation. The returns as to the Governorship come in slowly. Gains and losses about balance one another in the country districts. Reports so far as received from Hudson and Essex Counties show that Dixon is running better than was expected. In Camden County Dixon gets 1,100 majority, 1,000 less than in 1880. Abbett is probably elected, but there is a chance for Dixon if the report that Hudson gives but 1,000 for Abbett is true. As a general thing Abbett gains in strongly Republican districts, and loses in Democratic strongholds.

THE COBDEN CLUB, BY ITSELF.

LETTER FROM PRESIDENT HAMLIN.

MEMBERSHIP AND AIMS OF THE CLUB-FACTS FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

To The Editor of The Tribune. SIR: The free traders are thrown into such a state of unreasonable excitement by any criticisms upon the Cobden Club and its efforts to upset the American system, that I propose to let it speak for itself. For one cannot refer to these efforts in the most respectful manner, but some wordy trickster takes him to task as guilty of falsehood, deception, or any other immorality that may serve the purpose, and then reads him a lofty and pious lecture on the first principles of morals! This is a well-understood and worn-out trick, and therefore not harmful. But it is not pleasant. I wish to live in peace with all men, and shall, therefore, let the club and its friends speak for it. It is an association so mighty and active, and has such agencies at its command, and is so deeply interested in substituting the British system for our own, that one cannot afford to disregard it. When it speaks one should listen with attentive ears.

First, what is the membership of the clue as published to the world? I venture to say that there is no such array of distinguished names in any similar association in Europe or America. It has the names of twelve of the Cabinet Ministers, leaving only three or four who are not members of the club. The Prime Minister, the Lord Chancellor, the Lord President of the Council, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the five great Secretaries of State, Colonies, Home, and Foreign Affairs, the Postmaster-General, etc., etc. The power of England resides in their hands. There are also about 200 members of Parliament. They are men of vast wealth, of great capacity, of boundless enterprise. They are millionnaires, they are manufacturers, cotton lords, iron lords, and lords of the soil. They all regard the glory and wealth of England as inseparable from their own; and the protective system of America as the one grand obstacle to be removed. I also find, among many names wholly unknown to foreigners, those of almost all the distinguished men in Church and State who are known abroad.

For what purpose now does this vast combination of the wealth and power and learning of England live and labor ? It can have no reference to free trade in England, for there it is not in the least danger, and such an object would not be sufficient to call together a dozen men possessed even of the lowest grade of common-sense.

The club itself has made no concealment of its designs. This has evidently offended its American coadjutors, and it will be advisable in future for it to be more reticent. At the annual meeting of the club in 1875, after referring to the importance of gaining the United States, it said: "We can well afford to wait a little longer for the adhesion of a people, whose verdict, when pronounced, will be decisive of the fate of protection both in Europe and America." At the same dinner there were many references to the United States, and letters read from American correspondents, one of whom asserted that "because the people of the United States were not fools, they could not continue protectionists." To continue a protectionist. then, is to be a fool; and for eight long years Professor Perry has seen us all in fooldom-or we have Abbett 313 majority.

DEMOCRATIC MAJORITIES REDUCED.

A QUIET ELECTION IN JERSEY CITY—PERBUSENTATION IN THE ASSEMBLY UNCHANGED.

The clection in Hudson County passed off very quietly and the vote polled was light. If the Republicans in other portions of the State have done against the American system, or in favor of the British, it is quite possible interest as well as in Hudson County, Judge Dixon is elected Governor. The Democratic majority of 5,000 has been cut down one-half; of 5,000 assert, but how and when, and other minutize of the kind, must be left to the Cobden Club and to its travlev Cabinet ministers in their monificial capacity to decide."

This is very significant. We have here the present and proclaimed. It was a very inprudent and proclaimed. It was a very imprudent and foolish thing for the Times to do. Nothing of the kind will ever be repeated. But it has only stated trackly what every American ought to know, that this combination of the power, wealth and taleat of England for the propagation of free-trade principles and treaties, having absolutely failed in Europe, is to concentrate all its resources upon America. Its power will be felt in the Presidential election of 1884. Its efforts to control the election of 1894. Its efforts to control the election of 1895 were too open and undisguised to accomplish their end. Very different tactics will now be adopted.

The celebrated John Bright, the friend of Cobden, and I may add of the United States, in his speech at Burmingham, June 13, said: "In two years lefe there will be an election of President of the great forum of a mation of fifty millious, what will be the result?.

Well, two years hence I believe there will be a good deal of talk, and perhaps a good deal of it wild and foolish, . . . but I believe they will do before long what we have done, and they will declare it to be the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American, as it is the inalienable right of every American as will talt they propose both to earn their money and to spend it, and t Middleburg, 1't., Nov. 4, 1883.

The interest in the election returns, meagre though they were for several hours, was intense in Brooklyn last evening. A great crowd fire reached these the loss would have been heavy. As gathered in front of the bulletins it was the pecuniary loss was small. Professor Emerson displayed in front of the City Hall Square, and it was practically impossible to make way through it except by following the street cars, which forced their way along. The figures dis-played were heartily cheered, whether they flavored one party or the other.

Many women were in the crowd. A number of wild guesses as to the result of the Mayoralty contest were put up, some of them
doubtless to aid those who had bet to hedge, for not a vote for Mayor was canvassed until nearly midnight, and the first came from Democratic districts. At midnight the indications were that Seth Low had been reelected by a small majority. The Republican Campaign Committee received the returns as fast as they were sent to Police Headquarters, at the rooms in the Garfield Building in which the campaign has been directed. A crowd pressed in the outer room. Within, among others, were the Rev. Dr Cuyler, S. B. Dutcher, W. H. Leayeraft, Edwin Packard, I. H. Cary, F. M. Edgerton, and C. W. Cheshire. At Music Hall the Young Republican Club announced the returns to a great throng of persons, most of whom remained until a late hour. A large number of Democrats listened to the reading of figures in the Assembly Rooms in Washington-st. DESERTIONS FROM THE ARMY.

THE LOT OF THE AMERICAN SOLDIER FIFTY YEARS AGO AND TO-DAY CONTRASTED.

In a communication to The Army and Navy Sta: Having read a communication which Register a writer draws the following contrast between the lot of the American soldier fifty or even forty years appeared in your issue of October 21 and which relates to the missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Mexico, I feel compelled to ask that, in justice to an en-terprise in which many of the Christian people of this country are interested, you admit to your columns the following statements.

The first ground of complaint is sought in the absence rom the mission field of both the superintendent of the mission and the paster of the churches in and near Pachuca. The facts are as follows: The superintendent, after five years and a half of continuous labor, received at the hands of the authorities of the Missionary Society, at the hands of the authorities of the Missionary Society, in accordance with the regulations applicable in such cases, six months' leave of absence, he having made such provision for the care of his official duties as was necessary during his absence. The Rev. Mr. Barker was obliged, in December last, to bring to this country to be add acts because for the section of her health his invalid wife, hoping for the restoration of her health by such medical treatment and care as she could only by such medical treatment and care as she could only receive in her former home and under the influence of her native climate. Mr. Barker returned to Pachuca in April, and entered again upon his work with the activity and zeal which have won for him the confidence of all who have been impartial witnesses of his labors. After some weeks, having received alarming idlings—cernin the state of his wife's health, he found it necessary to hasten to her side. This he did after having made such provision for its work as he found to be possible. That

In a communication to The Army and Nary Register a writer draws the following contrast between the let of the American soldier fifty or even forty years ago and his condition now:

Then a private soldier received $5 a month, his clothing and his rations, consisting of beef or pork, flour and heans or rice and a gill of whiskey every morning immediately after reveille. All the posts on the Western frontier, from Lake Superior to the Gulf of Mexico, were built by the soldiers. Mechanics and men employed as himselves on extra duty received fifteen cents a day extra and an extra gill of whiskey per day. Their companions not employed in building barracks or other permanent labor, had to perform all the guard and other carrison duttes without any extra compensation. Right discipline was enforced and company commanders took upon themselves to punish, at their discretion, many of the minor offences which soldiers committed, and there were some cases where punishment was discrated rather by the passions of the officers than by the deserts of the offenders, out of their small pittance of pay soldiers had to pravide all things necessary for keeping their arms and accountments in order-brushes, blacking, etc. Instead of cooking ranges, fully furnished, they had camp kettles and moss-pans in which they did all their cooking. They slept in double bunks, two stories ligh, two men in a bunk, on straw beds, and their clothing was kept in their knapsacks or on shelves at the foot of the binks. There were no wash-rooms or conveniences of any khal for bathling.

Discipline was severe and arbitrary; drunkenness was made the rais by the morning gill of whiskey and fleave was very little for researche a man to army life. The first step toward bettering the condition of the soldier was the substitution of sugar and coffee for the whiskey part of the railou, though at first the allowance was only six pounds of the one and four pounds of the other to the hundred rations. Then the pay was slightly increased and they have more of it; the

the state of his wire's health, he found it necessary to hasten to her side. This he did after having made such provision for its work as he found to be possible. That he work of the mission should suffer some embarrassment during the enforced obsence of the missionary is doubtless true, but this embarrassment can be only of a temporary nature. Neither of the ministers referred to receives full salary during his absence, being only allowed a reduced stipend as provided by the rules of the Missionary Society. At every step these ministers have seled with the full knowledge and approval of the duly constituted authorities of the Church and of the Missionary Society.

Your correspondents, who so courageously hide their personality under assumed names, aliege that the only result of robsionary work is "to give employment for rather pay) to a few largy Mexicana, and ladies is school reachers) seeking husbands." The spirit which manifestly dictates such lunguage deserves only contempt. Many witnesses and proofs can be brought in attestation of the worth of the Mexican ministers and other laborers employed in the mission. Their faithfulness and efficiency are subject to frequent examination, and it is the constant endeavor of those responsible for the conduct of the mission to exclude from it all unworthy persons.

It is absolutely false that the authorities of the mission in Mexico counfenance, in any degree, the observance of Romish festivals and holidays.

Your correspondents conclude with the sweeping assertion that "the tuission of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Mexico is a complete farce." Much might be suid in refutation of this statement. The stabilities returns very carefully made, show that the Methodist Episcopal Church in Mexico aumbers nearly 1,000 communicants and a much larger number of adherents. Its Sabbath-schools bring together nearly 700 pupils, while its day schools bring together nearly 700 pupils, while its day schools are educating about 600 of the youth of both sexes.
